MUSIC CONCERT ANNOUNCEMENT
Saturday, Nov. 21, 2009 - 7:30 pm

The Folk Music Society of Huntington's HARD LUCK CAFÉ will present two performers:

MEG BRAUN Tomboy Princess

Meg Braun has her tough and sweet voice, much funkier than your usual singer-songwriter — she has great stories that are not a bit generic.

In songs both sweetly melodious and/or solemn, Meg uses the language of fables and folk tales to illuminate the modern world. Even a song taken from the headlines assumes the bright halo of a fairy tale, while a straightforward coming-of-age story becomes a vision of wider worlds, both real and imaginary.

We've heard plenty of disillusionment from singer/songwriters over the years, but there are certain people who make it go down easier. When Meg Braun wraps her big, buttery alto around the bittersweet lines, "Remember how we used to drive in your daddy's car / for miles and miles, though we never got very far / We'd park and lie outside under the stars / believing, believing, in our dreams..." and "When it's over, you'll know, 'cause you won't miss his voice in the hallway..." we believe everything she says.

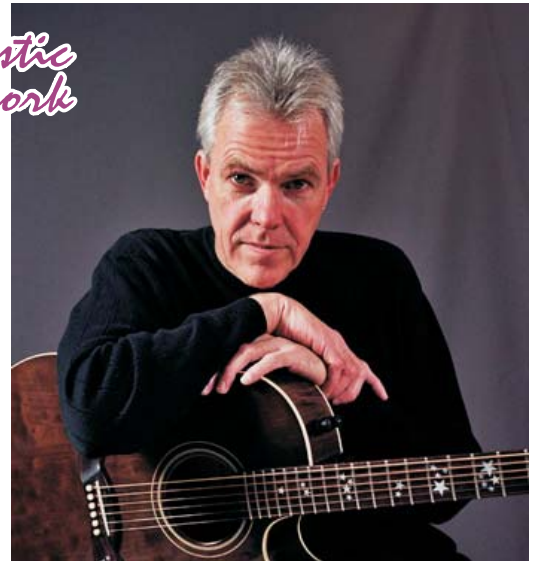

Richard Cuccaro, Acoustic Live!

on the same program with:

ANGELO M. Acoustic Steelwork

Angelo M. Is a gifted musician with incredible dexterity on finger-picking guitar, slide Dobro and mandolin. He makes your jaw drop when he sits down and blisters the frets. He has a beautiful voice and a great sense of style — his guitar playing and vocals complement each other wonderfully!

After a steel mill bankruptcy, Angelo M. (short for Melasecca) made the unlikely transition from steelworker to touring artist. Reviews hail him a "Brilliant Guitarist" with an "Excellent Voice" and call his performance "Powerful". His music is featured in the PBS TV Series Roadtrip Nation, and he won recognition in both the prestigious "Mountain Stage" New Song Contest & in Billboard's Song Contest for Thirty Years; a song from his debut CD Far From Home. Pennsylvania is his home, and his acclaimed new CD Steelwork is a tribute to his former working life.
